"Mr. HEWITT (Australia) said that the deferring of the commencement of negotiations had been based on a belief that a settlement first of the problem which he had raised would be the most expeditious method of carrying out the tariff negotiations. If, with a full understanding of the position, and the fact that this issue of publicity had not been resolved, it was felt by the Contracting Parties that the general course of negotiations would be assisted more by commencing negotiations now than by waiting until the problem which he had raised was settled, the Australian Delegation would be prepared to commence negotiations."
